

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is the difference between independent and assisted living?

Independent living is a great option for those requiring less care. It provides a vast amount of independence and freedom while at the same time offers the security and convenience of living in one of our communities—i.e., activities, social events, meals, weekly housekeeping, etc.

Assisted living is designed for those who need more support when it comes to day-to-day activities (bathing, medication assistance, grooming, dressing, etc.). We tailor our services to each and every resident because we know not everyone is in need of the same things. The program allows for freedom via an array of choices with activities, meals, and many other possibilities.

Do you accept Medicaid/DSHS?

Yes, no one is ever turned away from one of our communities because of their form of payment.

Do you allow pets?

We are more than happy to accept pets into our community—they ease the transition into a new chapter of life that we look forward to sharing with you. Please speak with your building administrator prior to move-in about specific details and/or fees for having a pet.

Are you required to pay a buy-in fee?

How do your leases work?

No, we do not have a buy in fee for any of our locations. Our communities are structured to be the very best intersection between great care and affordability. Also, our leases are always month-to-month with prices guaranteed for one year.

Are you currently hiring?

All staffing is handled by the administrator at each individual community. We are always looking for great people to join our team so feel free to contact the location that best suits you. We look forward to hearing from you!
